Northwestern University, Department of Sociology

Culture & Society Workshop Winter 2018

Thursdays, 3:30 PM to 5:30 PM,
Harris Hall — Room L05
1870 Sheridan Road Evanston, IL 60208

April 5  Corey Fields, Georgetown University
"Playing the Field, Desperately Looking, or Permanent Singleton: How Perceptions of Agency Shape Attitudes and Behavior toward Single Daters" (in Parkes 222)

April 12 Robin Bartram, NU Sociology
"We’re Not the Peeling Paint Police"

April 19 Megan Albaugh Bonham, NU Sociology
"Preserving the Dark Night Sky: Examining the (Often Hidden) Non-Science Discourses within Environmental Movements"

April 26 Lilly Boxman, NU Media, Technology and Society
"Decoding Convergence-Divergence: The Case of Gravity’s 70K Initiative"

May 3 Emily Handsman, NU Sociology
"Teaching the Heart: Changes in Character Education in U.S. Public Schools, 1985-2016"

May 10 Jon Atwell, NU Institute on Complex Systems and IPR
"The Production of Meaning in a Networked Public"

May 17 Miri Eliyahu, NU Sociology
"The Creating of a Moral Product Category: Corporations, Social Movements and Motivations for Differentiation"

May 24 Vincent Yung, NU Sociology
"Commercial Imprints and Scientific Footprints: Analyzing the Co-Evolution of Science and Scientists Across Organizational Forms in Materials Science and Engineering"

The Culture and Society Workshop is an interdisciplinary workshop for advanced graduate students (third-year and above) and faculty whose research involves the connections between culture and society. New members are always welcome! For more information, please contact student coordinators Diego de los Rios and Alka Menon: cultureworkshop@gmail.com or faculty Director Wendy Griswold at w-griswold@northwestern.edu