CURRENT RESEARCH

Currently working on a book that examines the sociology of W. E. B. DuBois. The essential thesis is that the history of American sociology has to be rewritten once DuBois is factored in as a major founder of American sociology. Additionally, DuBois' foundational insight into the nature of race must be reconsidered and further developed if racial dynamics are to be fully grasped.

Currently working on a research project that investigates the contemporary lessons of the civil rights movements for current social movements including labor and immigrant rights.
